David Kessler
"Life Lessons"

Wednesday, April 25th, 7pm

Is this really the way I want to live my life? Each one of us at some point asks that question. The tragedy is not that life is short but that we often see only in hindsight what really matters. Author and acclaimed international speaker David Kessler will discuss his new book, "Life Lessons," which was co-authored with Elisabeth Kubler-Ross, M.D. Many years of working with the dying have shown that certain lessons come up over and over again. These lessons are the extraordinary illuminations of people who learned to live just as they thought they were about to die. From the Lesson of Love to Lesson of Happiness, David will reveal the truth about our fears, our hopes, our relationships, and above all, about the grandness of who we really are.

Elisabeth Kubler-Ross, M.D. bestselling author of On Death and Dying and To Live Until We Say Good-Bye, is the recipient of more than twenty-five honorary doctorates. Her books have been translated into more than thirty languages. She now lives in the Arizona desert.

David Kessler an end-of-life specialist and a leader in the field of hospice care, has helped hundreds of men and women, including the late Anthony Perkins and Michael Landon. His first book, The Needs of the Dying, received praise from Mother Theresa and has been translated into eleven languages. He lives in Los Angeles.
